Niagara Falls to Electrify Ontario.

The plan to electrify the province of Ontario, Canada, with power from Niagara Falls, fully described in the July Popular Mechanics, is undoubtedly the most stupendous undertaking of this character ever projected. The article states:

"The first contract with the Commission was signed by Toronto, and calls for 10,000 hp., the first supply to be delivered to that city in December, 1908. Among other cities that signed contracts are London, Hamilton, St. Thomas, Woodstock, Guelph, Berlin, Stratford, Preston, Galt and Ingersoll. Toronto will pay $18.10 per horsepower per year and St. Thomas $26.50 per year. The prices the other cities will pay range between these figures, according to distance from source of supply and amount of power contracted for. As soon as the lines feeding these cities are completed a line will be run to Windsor, 247 miles from the Falls.

"The undertaking, which is now nearing culmination, is a gigantic one, furnishing, as it will, the power to light cities, run electric railways and drive the heavy machinery of hundreds of manufacturing concerns." A map accompanying the article gives a clear idea of the territory to be covered by the system.

The Historic Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Robert Mackay, in "Success Magazine."

For upward of forty years every President registered at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and Abraham Lincoln went forth from its hospitable walls to Cooper Union, where he made the speech that started him on the road to the White House. General Grant's first candidacy for the Presidency was originally discussed at a dinner of the Peabody Fund trustees at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, in 1867, and he and his Cabinet once held an official session in one of its parlors. Roscoe Conklin and General William T. Sherman lived there during their last years. There James A. Garfield and Grover Cleveland held their first public reception, and Chester A. Arthur received the first Korean Ambassadors.

But perhaps its most historic incident occurred in the summer of 1884. The Fifth Avenue was then the stopping place of James G. Blaine. The "Plumed Knight" had been nominated for the Presidency.

It was the scene of the famous "Rum Romanism and Rebellion" incident that cost Blaine the Presidency. Burchard, who opposed Grover Cleveland and hoped to injure him by charging him with being an advocate of the above trinity, had hurled the words at Blaine, but Blaine refused to answer them.

Queen Takes Lemon Baths.

From the New York Press.

The "lemon bath" is, so it appears, the newest summer craze. Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, who champions the lemon bath, borrowed the idea from the Dutch Indies and attributes a great deal of the antinlike softness of her skin to the cleansing effects of the baths in which she has been indulging on the advice of one of her colonial governors. "The lemon bath is a valuable aid to beauty," says a prominent beauty specialist abroad, "and the proper way to take it is as follows: Five lemons cut into slices are left to soak in a basin of water for half an hour. The water drawn into the bath must be moderately hot and the lemon water is added to it slowly, the whole being stirred vigorously the while, as is the mode when making cocoa. As an invigorator, the lemon bath cannot be improved upon, and many of my clients are going to take it daily during the hot wave."
